- (1) the payee has a previously established order for spousal support or the payee subsequently obtains an order for spousal support, and
- (2) the minor child and the payee are living in the same household, and
- (3) the child support obligation established will be enforced by the IV-D agency; existing spousal support orders must be enforced even if the spousal support and child support are in separate orders.

D. Mandatory and optional services: As a condition of eligibility, IV-A and IV-E applicants are mandated to receive full services, including medical support, and do not have the option to refuse any IV-D services. All IV-D applicants and recipients are on notice that information provided to the IV-D agency (either to IV-D staff or attorneys) will not be disclosed to the general public, but may be used to collect support from either parent. Applicants and their attorneys shall keep the IV-D agency fully informed of any private proceedings. If applicants or their legal representatives engage in conduct that is deemed to be non-cooperative, the case shall be eligible for closure. A court order for unsupervised visitation is not generally compatible with a non-disclosure indicator. D. The federal government may disclose confidential information on a New Mexico Title IV-D case in accordance with 42 USC 653.

The burden of proving the legitimacy of a request is on the requestor.

(4) Third party requests - The Title IV-D agency will not honor a request for information from a third party without a notarized release from either the custodial party or non-custodial party that specifies the information to be released. A third party may not obtain information pursuant to an authorized release unless the party consenting to the release is entitled to receive the information. The information provided will be in accordance with authorized releases according to federal and state law. The Title IV-D agency reserves the right to provide the requested information directly to either the custodial party or non-custodial party rather than the third party requestor or to redact personal or confidential information, as appropriate.
